How much does the United States spend to treat different medical conditions?

Spending by medical condition

- Circulatory system (hypertension, heart attack, etc.)
- Musculoskeletal system (arthritis, back pain, etc.)
- Respiratory (pneumonia, asthma, etc.)
- Endocrine (diabetes, high cholesterol, etc.)
- Nervous system (alzheimer's, MS, epilepsy, etc.)
- Neoplasms (cancers, tumors, etc.)
- Medical condition data, including spending and price indexes, are available at http://go.usa.gov/JNnP

Source: Health Care Satellite Account, Bureau of Economic Analysis
Health Care Survey Data + “Big Data”

- Circulatory system
- Musculoskeletal system
- Nervous system
- Neoplasms
- Endocrine
- Respiratory

Price Index (2009=100)